What is Informed Consent?

Informed

You are given all of the information on the subject. It includes the risks and the benefits

Consent

Agreeing to an action that you have been fully informed on.

Expressed

Consent given directly by an individual verbally, written, or electronic form. Example- Completing a consent to disclose personal health information is a form of expressed consent

Implied

Consent inferred through an individual's actions. If an individual books an appointment, and attends the appointment the client is inherently providing consent to receiving the service.
